► According to the WMO forecast, El Niño 2026 is expected to persist until which period?

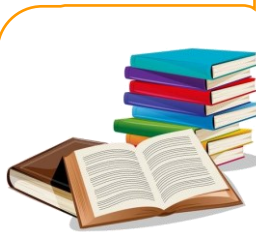

- A) October 2026
- B) December 2026
- C) January 2027
- D) February 2027
- E) April 2027

Answer
D) February 2027.

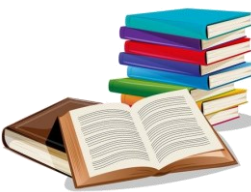

Event and Location:

- Event: The World Meteorological Organisation (WMO) forecast a near-100% probability that El Niño conditions will continue through February 2027 and may strengthen toward the end of 2026.
- Location: Tropical Pacific Ocean, with potential climate impacts across India and other regions globally.

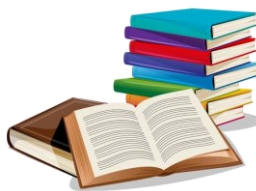

Mandates and Objectives:

- Mandates: WMO and national meteorological services have called for stronger early warning systems as unusually warm conditions in the tropical Pacific indicate the continuation and possible intensification of El Niño.

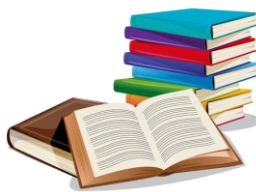

Mandates and Objectives:

- Objectives: The forecast aims to improve preparedness for possible impacts on rainfall, temperatures, agriculture, water resources and extreme weather, particularly in climate-sensitive regions such as India.

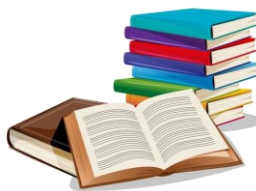

Important Terms Explained:

- Niño 3.4 Index: It is a widely used indicator for monitoring sea-surface temperature anomalies in the central-eastern equatorial Pacific and assessing the strength of El Niño and La Niña conditions.

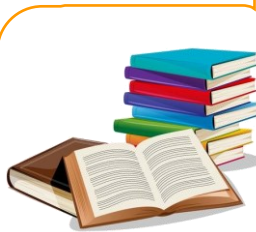

Important Terms Explained:

- Indian Ocean Dipole (IOD): It is a climate pattern involving differences in sea-surface temperatures between the western and eastern Indian Ocean, with a positive phase sometimes supporting rainfall over the Indian subcontinent.

Important Terms Explained:

- Early Warning System: It is a coordinated mechanism that uses forecasts, monitoring and communication to provide advance notice of potentially hazardous weather or climate events.

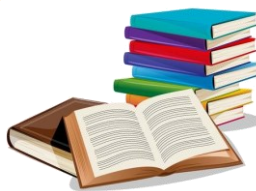

Tabular Summary:

Parameter	Details
Climate phenomenon	El Niño is expected to persist and potentially strengthen through the end of 2026.
Forecast period	WMO projects a near-100% probability of continuation through February 2027.
Oceanic region	The central-eastern equatorial Pacific is experiencing significant warm anomalies.
Niño 3.4 reading	The index increased from about +1.5°C during May–July 2026 to around +2.0°C in July.
Recent weekly anomaly	Values reached approximately +2.2°C to +2.6°C above normal between late July and mid-August.
Subsurface warming	Parts of the Pacific recorded subsurface temperatures exceeding 8°C above average during July and early August.
Impact on India	A strong El Niño may contribute to below-normal monsoon rainfall and warmer conditions, affecting agriculture and water resources.
Possible moderating factor	A positive IOD with a September–November 2026 seasonal mean near +0.9°C may partly offset adverse rainfall impacts over India.
